SUSTAINABILITY

Consumers are becoming more and more demanding of transparency when it comes to ethics and sustainability of the brands they purchase from. At Ingham's sustainability and animal welfare are at the forefront of our priorities, aligning our business with organisations whose key focus is on animal welfare such as The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA), and The Free Range Egg and Poultry Australia. This ensures that our standards are best practice, and you can rest assured you're providing your customers with a product they can trust.

'The care of our chickens is our number one job. Are they happy? Do they have easy access to food and water? Is the environment conducive to good health? Are they enriched? If we don't care for them and provide them with the most comfortable environment, they won't grow. Simple as that.'

General/TURKEY TIPS

HANDLING AND STORAGE

- Defrost in the refrigerator only, not on the bench.
- Use separate cutting boards and utensils when handling raw and cooked poultry. Wash these thoroughly with hot, soapy water before and after handling.
- If you cook poultry to eat later, refrigerate while hot.
- Always store cooked foods above raw foods in the refrigerator.
- Keep fresh food refrigerated at or below 4°C.
- Keep frozen food at or below minus 18°C.
- Once poultry has been thawed, do not refreeze.
- After purchasing fully cooked smallgoods, ensure they are stored in the refrigerator with their wrapping sealed until required. After opening, they must be consumed within 3 days.

GENERAL TURKEY TIPS

- Turkey can be handled, cooked and stored in the same way as chicken. There are no special requirements in its handling.

COOKING TIPS

- Appliance temperatures can vary, you may need to adjust cooking times accordingly.
- Poultry is fully cooked when a core temperature of 82°C is achieved.

GENERAL ROASTING TIPS

- Stuffing does not have to be cooked inside the Turkey. It can be placed in the pan around the roast, or baked separately in foil or moulds. A shorter cooking time should be used for the stuffing.
- Remember, glazes which contain sugar may burn easily. Brush on these glazes 20-30 minutes before the turkey is cooked.
